1	My experience is that I don't think it's too much different from offline, because we will be given listening exercises through the audio provided from the lecturer, it's just that when the lecture process takes place and the lecturer gives us audio to listen to together in the zoom, there is a little	I don't have enough experience of listening outside the classroom during the pandemic. I usually try to practice my listening by using songs and sometimes also listen to the audio that has been share..	In class, we are given in the form of audio and can download it because we use WhatsApp so we send it via the WhatsApp group. For the outside class, it is usually through songs or watching videos.	The difficulty is having to cultivate the intention to learn on your own, because of the pandemic so everything is on your own don't miss out on learning.

	difficulty is because the network is not good, so there are friends who don't hear very clearly or break up as well as me too
2	I think it is pretty good learning is the same as in class. Listen to native speakers, answer questions, etc. For trouble, sometimes the signal is not stable.	I feel the same as always. Because so far I have studied independently as well as individually, then the material has also been given by many lecturers. If the difficulty is only how to manage time with other activities.	Whatsapp and Zoom. For Whatsapp, it is usually used to send task files or material to be discussed, while the zoom is to review what we have read or given while on Whatsapp.	Know it is a signal problem that is sometimes unstable.
3	I find it not so difficult to learn listening in online classes because we are often given audio to practice listening and we can playback the audio.	The experience is more fun if learning is done together with friends. So that interactions can occur that can help someone's listening.	Listening to music or watching videos in English is what I usually do to help me get used to listening to sentences in English.	Often there are some sentences that I do not understand the word and it is meaning.
4	Often there are some sentences that I do not	I study independently through youtube, especially listening	In the class, the media used is audio to practice listening,	I didn't have any difficulties while learning

	understand the word and its meaning. This semester, I no longer have a listening course. But during the last semester, I was always happy with this course. Usually, we hold class meetings on zoom or WhatsApp. If zoomed in, my lecturer will explain listening material in the form of powerpoint and recording questions then give us sample questions and we are asked to answer the questions. Even on WhatsApp, it's the same, only the material is different. If on WhatsApp, the provision of material uses records and photos of the material.	tests, and sometimes I do online tests on websites on google.	while outside the classed media used are WA and youtube. Wa is for sending material, while YouTube is for understanding and listening to what we watch on youtube.	to listen during the pandemic.
5	To learn listening during this pandemic is not so difficult, because in my opinion	During this pandemic, I used songs and movies as my listening learning media. Not	As I mentioned earlier, I used to use songs and movies as my learning media. while in	No significant difficulties.

	listening is a material that is quite easy to teach and can use audio files. So, I don't think there is a deep special impression.	learning, but just to make me not lose listening skills.	class sending audio and spelling out the tasks in the audio. No significant difficulties.
6	My experience is that it is very difficult to learn online. Because when we practice listening, we are directed to use audio or used media that are usually provided on the internet. for example, YouTube applications and music platforms that can train our hearing to get used to English.	My experience is when I listen to my friends or interlocutors who use English or even music around me. I can understand. Listening around it is also a learning experience outside the classroom to hone our hearing capture. Even in online classes, we can practice our listening skills more and explore them at home. This can be done by opening youtube videos that come from native speaker countries. We can learn more about how to pronounce and this is very helpful in the process of	Media that is often used in class. We often use zoom and the lecturer will explain the tricks to make listening easier. We also played some videos or audio that could be used as material in class. Outside of class, I only use YouTube to learn to listen because there are lots of content that can make it easier to learn to listen.	My current difficulty is that I still have difficulty listening to fast speaking natives or unfamiliar vocabulary. Because his speed makes me confused about what he said. learning process.

7	My learning experience is not very good because during this pandemic I always learn to use the internet and in my village the internet is not good, which makes it difficult for me and I have to find a good network.	My experience of learning outside the classroom is quite difficult because I'm not the type of person who doesn't easily understand if I just read I also have to be explained directly	I always use WhatsApp media and Google classroom to upload assignments, and outside of class I use the same media as in class, only I add media zoom to do online learning	During this pandemic, my problem is the Internet. The internet network in my village is very bad, it makes it difficult for me to find information and if I enter through zoom media I don't hear what the lecturer says in zoom because the network is not good, so my zoom doesn't sound or gets stuck.
8	My experience in participating in the listening learning process in online classes during the pandemic and through zoom media in particular, in my opinion, is not very effective. Some of the factors that contributed to	Outside of listening class, I usually practice my listening skills by watching short videos on YouTube or television. Then, I follow or imitate each word or sentence until it feels quite memorable, then I write it down in the "vocabulary	In class: Zoom App, WhatsApp and Google Classroom Outside class: Youtube and Television	In particular, in the classroom, during this pandemic, the difficulty I faced was when I got a listening assignment and had to listen to it via zoom, it requires a high-quality internet connection

	the ineffectiveness were; The instability of the internet connection makes the sound system not very clear to hear, as well as the listening parts that are often cut off and make it difficult to hear the vocabulary that is heard.	book" list, after that I practice it.		because if the connection is slightly interrupted, it's not uncommon for me to miss answering if the session is "who is it?" he'll get it fast."
9	While studying online in the listening class, I felt a difference when I was offline. Many experiences weren't too bad for me because during online lectures, especially in the listening class, I was still able to handle everything, both from assignments and during class hours. Moreover, the lecturer who brought this course was very good at teaching and were equipped with tips and tricks before	Regarding learning listening outside the classroom, this is quite a challenge for me because when I try to practice such as answering questions or self-study, when I find difficulties, am confused, or can't even answer questions, I will spontaneously end it.	In class, lecturers usually use some kind of TOEFL test and then provide some audio and sometimes additional applications. Outside of class, I usually learn to use podcasts or answer some listening section questions that people post on social media, as well as listen to music and watch movies.	The difficulties I faced in learning listening during the pandemic were sometimes the internet connection was not good, especially where I live in a remote area so that during class hours I sometimes missed some explanations from the lecturer and even the sound was intermittent from the audio. Then the noise from other participants who did not
